Assembly Bill No. 1870—An act for the relief of certain assessment districts and for that purpose empowering incorporated cities to render financial aid to such districts and to declare the urgency of this act, to take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 8. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into immediate effect.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows:

During the fifteen years last past hundreds of districts have been organized throughout the State of California under the provisions of the Acquisition and Improvement Act of 1925. Many of these districts were created during times of great economic prosperity and high land values. In many of such districts, due to the optimism of the times, or other causes, bonds for public improvements were issued in amounts in excess of the ability of the lands of such districts to bear the assessments necessary to pay the principal and interest on such bonds. Millions of dollars in assessed land valuations are located within districts created under these acts. Due to the present economic depression land values throughout the State have shrunk to the point where, in many cases, the total assessed valuation of all lands within a given district is less than the face value of the bonds outstanding in such district. Annual assessments upon individual parcels of land within these districts amount in many instances to more than the assessed value of such land.

Under present economic conditions property owners are unable to meet these high assessments and hundreds of such districts throughout the State have reached a point of hopeless delinquency.

Inasmuch as the property owners of these districts can not, under the law, pay their municipal taxes without at the same time paying the district assessments many cities are unable to collect large sums of money badly needed for the purposes of government.

Many hundreds of properties in these districts are being deeded to the State and to cities in this State for delinquent taxes and assessments and unless the financial aid of the city is immediately made available to assist these overburdened districts thousands of parcels of land will be stricken from the tax rolls this year; thousands of property owners will lose their homes, millions of dollars in governmental revenue will be uncollectible and at the same time thousands of bondholders will be unable to realize any return upon their investments.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 5. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall take effect immediately. The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

This act is in effect the present State Teachers Retirement Salary Law as it now exists and which this act replaces. The sole effect of this act is to simplify the administration of the State teachers retirement system. An efficient economical administration of the existing law is impossible because many of its provisions are ambiguous, impractical and impossible of application. The provisions of this act however relating to the amount of required contributions by members of the system, the State, counties, school districts and other employing agencies; qualifications for retirement by members of the system, and the benefits paid are the same as are in the existing law, except that in the case of contributions by members of the system certain relief has been afforded in justifiable instances.

Inasmuch as the provisions of this act will procure the most efficient and economical administration of the system possible and inasmuch as such type of administration should be secured at the earliest possible date, this act should go into immediate effect.

There exists throughout the State of California and throughout the nation at large widespread unemployment and disorganization of trade and industry amounting to an economic emergency which is hindering commerce and is menacing the safety and industrial peace of the public. In these intrastate trades and industries there is widespread unemployment and economic distress and for the purpose of ameliorating such conditions it is necessary and desirable to authorize immediately the adoption and continuance of codes of fair competition applicable to such trades and industries in the various cities, cities and counties, and counties of the State as provided in this act.

Resolution.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Crittenden and Phillips:

Relative to the appointment of a committee to investigate the problems connected with agriculture and the marketing of agricultural products.

WHEREAS, Agriculture is recognized as one of the basic industries of the State of California, so that proper solutions of the problems facing agriculture and particularly those problems affecting the marketing of agricultural products, are of vital importance to the State; and

WHEREAS, These problems are of equal interest to the State, to the producer, to the distributor, and to the consumer; and

WHEREAS, In the 1935 session, the California Senate appointed an Interim Committee to investigate the effect of the marketing laws which were then passed, as well as the marketing laws which had been passed by the Federal Government, and also to investigate the price differentials between the prices paid the producer and the prices paid by the consumer for the same articles, and to investigate certain other phases of the marketing problem; and

WHEREAS, It is desirable that this investigation should continue, and that accurate information regarding present laws and regulations be secured, and that amendments to existing laws, or to proposed laws, be prepared before the 1939 session of the California Legislature, and that in particular a further investigation be made regarding price differentials; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the President appoint a committee of five members with wide powers to investigate the problems connected with the proper marketing of agricultural products; to determine the effects of laws and regulations now in effect, or hereafter to become effective, relating to the marketing of agricultural products, and to the differential between prices paid by producer and by consumer, and to the prices paid to California producers as compared with prices paid in the local markets and in other markets; to study cooperative marketing in this State and other States or elsewhere, to investigate mass buying and mass selling, to investigate approved methods of marketing, and to report not later than during the 1939 session of the California Legislature, with recommendations as to needed legislation; and be it further

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Jespersen:

Providing for the appointment of a Senate Interim Committee on State Hospitals to conduct a thorough study of the facilities of the State hospitals and the general subject of methods of caring for the insane in order to reduce the number of patients by more effective preventive and curative measures.

WHEREAS, In March, 1936, there were 19,900 patients in State hospitals and in March of 1937 there were 20,960, and the number of such patients increases constantly at the rate of four to ten per cent per year under existing conditions; and

WHEREAS, Proper treatment has been retarded and research practically eliminated, due to the steady increase in patient load accompanied by inadequate increase in personnel and treatment facilities at the several State hospitals, through new buildings have been added from time to time, the tendency having been toward temporary care rather than a definite treatment program, accelerated by present-day measures to reduce the number of patients admitted and by improved treatment methods in clinics, the period of hospitalization and lessen the number of patients required for treatment; and

WHEREAS, It is clearly indicated that a thorough study of the present conditions of this problem is imperative, to the end that suitable measures may be devised to lessen this otherwise hopeless circle of constantly increasing patient load and consequent heavy capital outlay; and

WHEREAS, From the experience of other States, particularly that of Massachusetts, it would appear that other and different methods of caring for the insane, and early treatment of mental cases, may be ascertained and developed, with the result that need for increased housing facilities in large measure may be reduced and a portion of the savings thus effected made available for improved equipment and more adequate personnel, both medical and nonmedical, for more extensive and effective preventive and curative work, ultimately reducing the patient load at the hospitals and increasing the proportion of persons competent to attend to their own affairs and participate normally in the life of the community; now, therefore, be it

2283.3. As used in this chapter "county" includes city and county."

Article II. State and County Aid.

228112. Every county shall grant aid to any child living therein at the time of his application who does not have resources in any county as defined by section 228120 of this code, but who is otherwise eligible therefor, in any case not included up to the amount of one hundred twenty dollars per annum. The State shall reimburse the county the full amount of the aid granted to such children.

ARTICLE III. PERSONS ELIGIBLE.

228120. The provisions of this chapter for the support of needy children apply to and include children of a parent who is committed to a State or Federal hospital or who has been deprived of any rights by reason of commitment to any prison, whether of this or any other State or of the United States, and leprose and dependent illegitimate infants who are or have become dependent upon any institution or society, without regard to the time in which such infants have been dependent on such institutions or society.

228121. For every abandoned infant or foundling and for every dependent illegitimate infant who has been institutionalized for adoption, who is an abandoned dependent upon such institution or society there shall be paid by the State the sum of fifteen dollars per month from the time it becomes dependent upon such institution or society until its discharge, or until it is adopted or reaches the age of two years, after which age such institution or society shall receive the same sum for such infants as for orphans.

228122. No child under the age of eighteen years is a needy child within the meaning of this chapter.

228123. No child for whom specific support there is paid the sum of twenty-five dollars or more per month, under these rules the provisions of this chapter, is a needy child within the meaning of this chapter.

228124. No child institutionalized in an institution for whom a bona fide offer of a parent home has been made in writing for further care, but no institution shall be required to surrender a child to any person or religious body different from that of the child or the parents of the child.

228125. No child is eligible to receive aid unless he has residence in the State.

For the purposes of this chapter a child has residence in the State if he has been physically present in the State for one year immediately preceding the date of application or if his parent or parents have resided in the State for the period of one year immediately preceding the date of application, or if he is born in the State.

228126. Except as provided in section 228122, no child is eligible to receive the aid provided for in section 228121 unless he has had residence in the county in which application is made for the period of one year immediately preceding the date of application.

For the purposes of this chapter, the county residence of the child shall be determined in accordance with the following rules:

(a) The residence of the father determines that of the child during the lifetime of the father, unless the father has abandoned the child, has been legally deprived of his custody, or is in a living separate and apart from his wife; in the latter case the residence of the child is determined by that of the parent who has his custody.

(b) If the child's residence is not determined under subdivision (a) hereof, then the residence of the mother determines that of the child unless the mother has abandoned the child or has been legally deprived of his custody. The residence of the husband shall not be deemed the residence of the wife if they are living separate and apart and in such case each may have a separate residence dependent upon proof of the fact and not upon legal presumptions. The residence of the parent having custody of the child determines his residence.

(c) If the residence of the child is not determined under subdivisions (a) or (b) hereof, then the residence of any individual to whom his custody has been legally awarded and who has taken charge of the child with the intention of giving him a permanent home determines his residence.

(d) If the residence of the child is not determined under the provisions of subdivisions (a) or (b) or (c) hereof, his residence, if he is an orphan, is that of the last deceased parent who had his legal custody.

(e) If the child has been temporarily removed from the custody and control of his parents, his residence is the residence of the parent who last had his legal custody.

(f) If the child has been declared permanently free from the custody and control of his parents, his residence is the county in which the court order was issued.

2283.27. Any child qualifying for and receiving aid from any county, who removes to another county of the State, shall be entitled to aid after one year's residence in the county to which he has removed. The removal from one county to another county in this State of any child receiving aid shall not work a forfeiture during such one year period of the aid previously awarded. The county to which such child has removed shall provide necessary medical or hospital care, or both, during the one year period of establishment of residence under this section. Except in emergency cases the county providing such medical and hospital care shall give immediate notice to the county granting the aid. The county granting the aid shall within thirty days of receipt of notice, accede to the plan of the county to which the child has removed or provide an adequate substitute plan. If such county fails so to do within thirty days the county offering such medical and hospital care may proceed, and it may demand payment for such care from the county granting the aid. The costs of such care shall be a proper charge upon the county from which the child has removed.

2283.28. In case of a dispute between counties as to the responsibility for the support of a needy child, either county may submit the dispute to the State Department of Social Welfare. The decision of the department thereon shall be binding on the counties.

Article IV. Administration and Procedure.

2283.50. Except as provided in section 2283.57 of this code, application for aid in behalf of any child shall be made to the county in which the child has residence as defined in section 2283.26 of this code or if the child has not such residence in any county, but is otherwise eligible, his application may be made through the county in which he is at the time of application. The county shall promptly investigate all applications in the manner and on forms prescribed by the State Department of Social Welfare. The county shall approve or deny such application.

2283.51. If and is denied, modified, canceled or not granted within a reasonable time, the applicant or recipient shall have the right of appeal upon filing a petition with the State Department of Social Welfare, and shall be accorded an opportunity for a fair hearing. The head of the Division of Aid to Needy Children of the State Department of Social Welfare shall set the appeal for hearing before the State Social Welfare Board and shall give all parties concerned reasonable notice of the time and place of the hearing. At the hearing, the applicant or recipient may appear in person, by counsel of his own choosing, or in person and by such counsel. The State Social Welfare Board shall consider the appeal, and shall dismiss the appeal or award aid as prescribed in this chapter. The county shall then pay for the needy child the sum, if any, awarded by the State Social Welfare Board. The decision of the board shall be binding upon the county.

2283.52. If the application is granted by the county in the calendar month in which it was signed, payment of aid shall commence as of the date the application was signed; but if the application is granted by the county in a subsequent month, payment shall be commenced as of the first day of the month in which the application is granted. Thereafter all payments shall be made monthly in advance by warrant of the county.

2283.53. During such time as grants in aid are made available by the United States Government for aid to dependent children in this State, and accepted by this State, the State Treasurer, shall, from the sums so granted, pay to each county (a) an amount which shall be used exclusively as aid to dependent children, equal to that proportion specified by the United States Government in so granting or making the sums available, not counting so much of such expenditure with respect to any child for any month as exceeds the maximum fixed by the United States Government in granting or making such sums available, and (b) an additional amount equal to such county's proportionate share of any amount so granted or made available to this State by the United States Government for the costs of administering such aid, which additional amount shall be used exclusively for paying such administration costs. The State Department of Social Welfare shall determine the portion of the amount so granted or made available for administration costs to be paid to the counties. The State Department of Social Welfare shall adopt rules and regulations which shall be of uniform application for determining the proportionate shares of the respective counties of the portion so determined to be paid to such counties.

2283.54. From the sums appropriated in section 2283.10 of this code, the State Treasurer shall pay to the county, for each child to whom aid is given under the provisions of this chapter, an amount equal to the amount appropriated therefor in section 2283.10, less an amount which shall bear such proportion to the amount paid by the State Treasurer under the provision of subdivision (a) of section 2283.53 for any such child, as the amount appropriated in section 2283.10 bears to the total amount of aid given to the child.

2283.55. The method of computing and paying the amount provided for in sections 2283.10, 2283.53 and 2283.54, for each quarter, shall be as follows:

(a) The State Department of Social Welfare shall, prior to the beginning of each quarter, estimate the amount to be paid for such quarter to each county under the provisions of sections 2283.10, 2283.53 and 2283.54. This estimate shall be based on a report which shall be filed by each county containing: (1) the names of the social agencies to be recognized in such counties in conformity with the provisions of this chapter, and setting the amount appropriated or made available for the support of such agencies; (2) such other data as may be required, showing the number of needy children receiving aid under the provisions of this chapter in the county, and (3) such other information and investigations as the State Department of Social Welfare deems necessary.

2281.08 In the application of aid to any institution and is provided by the State Department of Social Welfare in the month in which it was received, payment of aid shall commence on the day the application was signed, but if the application is filed by an institution and is provided by the State Department of Social Welfare in a subsequent month, payment shall be commenced on the first day of the month in which the application is delivered to the State Department of Social Welfare in the month in which it is received, except where payments are made under the provisions of section 2281.01 of this code. Such child shall be a condition precedent to the payment of aid to the State Department of Social Welfare and the State Controller. When and if the county receives the State Controller shall draw the amount warrant for the amount of aid to be paid to the institution, and the State Treasurer, on presentation, shall pay the same from the sums appropriated in section 2281.10. No money appropriated by the State to any institution, school, and other such agency shall be expended either in the institution or in the payment of any child to any institution.

2281.10 The State Department of Social Welfare shall: (a) make rules and regulations for the proper management and care of needy children; (b) make rules and regulations for the management of any needy children; (c) inquire, at any time, into the management of any institution receiving aid under the provisions of this chapter, or into the management of any county, of aid to needy children. Such rules and regulations shall be binding upon the institutions and counties.

If compliance by an institution or county with the provisions of this chapter and the rules and regulations of the State Department of Social Welfare can not be enforced in any other manner, the institution or county refusing to comply with such provisions, rules and regulations or to permit the inquiry provided for in this section shall not thereby receive aid under the provisions of this chapter until it has complied with all such provisions, rules and regulations and has permitted the inquiry by the State Department of Social Welfare, if such inquiry is demanded.

2281.11 The State Department of Social Welfare shall make such reports, in such form and containing such information, as the Federal Social Security Board from time to time requires, and shall comply with such provisions as the board from time to time finds necessary to assure correctness and verification of such reports.

On page 5 of the printed bill, as amended, between the lines 10 and 11, insert the following:

"SEC. 11. Section 9 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 9. No injunction or writ of mandate or other legal or equitable process shall ever issue in any suit, action or proceeding in any court against this State or against any officer thereof to prevent or enjoin the collection under this act of any license tax sought to be collected by the Controller; but after payment of any such license tax under protest duly verified and setting forth the grounds of objection to the legality of such license tax, the operator paying such license tax may bring an action against the State Treasurer in the superior court of the county of Sacramento for the recovery of license tax so paid under protest. No such action may be instituted more than sixty days after the last day prescribed for the payment of such license tax without penalty, and failure to bring suit within said sixty days shall constitute waiver of any and all demands against this State on account of alleged overpayment of license taxes hereunder. No grounds of illegality of the license tax shall be considered by the court other than those set forth in the protest filed at the time of the payment of the license tax.

If in any such action judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, the amount of the judgment shall first be credited on any license taxes due from the plaintiff under this act, and the balance of the judgment shall be refunded to the plaintiff. In any such judgment, interest shall be allowed at the rate of six per cent per annum upon the amount of license tax found to have been illegally collected from the date of payment of such license tax to the date of allowance of credit on account of such judgment or to a date preceding the date of the refund warrant by not more than thirty days, such date to be determined by the Controller.

In no case shall any judgment be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in any action brought against the State Treasurer to recover any license tax paid hereunder, when such action is brought by or in the name of an assignee of the operator paying said license tax, or by any person, company or corporation other than the person, company or corporation that has paid such license tax.

If the board determines that any tax, penalty or interest has been paid more than once, or has been erroneously or illegally collected or computed, the board shall set forth that fact in the records of the board and shall certify to the State Board of Control the amount collected in excess of what was legally due, from whom it was collected, or by whom paid, and if approved by that board the same shall be credited on any taxes then due from the operator under this act and the balance shall be refunded to the operator, or his successors, administrators, executors or assigns, but no such credit or refund shall be allowed after three years from the date of overpayment.

If the total taxes and licenses, excluding such State taxes and licenses as are on, according to or measured by gross receipts or net income or with respect to motor vehicle fuel, becoming due and payable during a calendar year and paid during such year to this State and its political subdivisions, including municipalities, by an operator upon, or on account of the operations of, his property used exclusively to produce gross receipts from his operations taxable hereunder, shall exceed 2 per cent of such gross receipts from his operations during such year, the amount of such excess, not exceeding, however, the amount of license taxes paid hereunder during such year, shall be subject to refund upon a verified claim therefor filed with the board by such operator within ninety days after the close of such year. Thereafter the board shall examine such claim and if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the board that a refund is due, shall certify to the State Board of Control the amount thereof, and if approved by that board the same shall be credited on any taxes then due from the operator under this act and the balance shall be refunded to the operator, or his successors, administrators, executors or assigns, but no such credit or refund shall be allowed unless the claim therefor shall have been filed within the time herein specified.

Report.

The following minority report by Special Senate Committee on Public Utilities was received and ordered printed in the Journal:

MINORITY REPORT OF THE SPECIAL SENATE COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC UTILITIES.

Pursuant to Senate Resolution Adopted June 14, 1935.

The following minority report was adopted by the Senate on the 27th day of May, 1935.

It is the opinion of the minority committee that the Commission has not thoroughly and independently investigated the existing and prospective conditions in the State of California. The minority committee and members of public utilities commission and the Commission and members of public utilities commission have been in the State of California.

Most of the public utilities in the State have been found to be in a state of financial distress and the Commission has not thoroughly investigated the conditions of public utilities.

Most of the public utilities in the State have been found to be in a state of financial distress and the Commission has not thoroughly investigated the conditions of public utilities. The Commission has not thoroughly investigated the conditions of public utilities.

In order to make our position clear in respect to the majority report we herewith specifically refer to their recommendations.

1. We concur in their recommendation against any contemplated plan looking toward the complete centralization in the State of California of the existing water and electric energy facilities as the same are now being conducted and managed by the municipalities and political subdivisions of the State.

2. We do not agree with the majority recommendation that the State use the Central Valley Project as a wholesaler to local public ownership projects only. We believe that the State should confine itself to wholesale service. We know of no reason why the project should restrict its customers to public agencies, which for the most part, serve only the cities. This procedure would deny the benefits of Central Valley power to the farming districts. Private utilities, because of their large interconnected systems, and their ability to serve rural areas, should be permitted to purchase such power as may be available.

3. We concur in the general recommendation in favor of continued development of the Central Valley Water Project for the benefit of all the people of the State of California whether served by the publicly or privately owned utilities, either in the cities or rural areas.

In a condemnation proceeding before the Railroad Commission brought by the city of Tulare to acquire the electric distribution system in the city, Commissioner Whitsell, in his opinion, made the following observations with regard to the effect that the condemnation of the urban electric distribution systems by municipalities would have upon total electric rates:

"If municipalities in California continue to condemn and take over the electric distribution facilities within their corporate limits and thereby throw the greater burden of system maintenance and costs upon the backs of our rural population, the time is not far distant when the burdens will become too great and agriculture will be compelled to furnish electric energy at a figure which would not return sufficient compensation to warrant maintenance of systems. Such takings of utility facilities with their resultant disintegration of utility systems will likewise be injurious to the urban as well as the rural communities. * * *

4. We can not concur in the recommendation that existing private utilities be purchased by the State if local publicly owned utilities are not to be so purchased. Either the State should confine the Central Valley Water Project to generating and wholesaling electric energy and selling it to all distributors applying, or it should go into the retail distribution of electric energy, with a view of taking over the entire distribution of such energy and making its service as complete and successful as possible. If the State goes into the local distribution business at all it should acquire all local distribution systems in the territory to be served, whether publicly or privately owned. This would prevent unnecessary duplication of service and resultant excessive costs.

5. We do not concur in the recommendation of the issuance of revenue bonds for financing the purchase or construction of public utility projects. We believe that the issuance of revenue bonds would result in serious abuses being committed by professional promoters. As a practical matter, revenue bonds are just as much a liability of the taxpayers as general obligation bonds. The majority report gives no consideration to the effect on State and local finances that would be caused by the acquisition of the private utilities. If this occurred, these properties would be taken out of the tax base. Evidence was produced before the committee to the effect that the privately owned power companies in California pay annual taxes of approximately $15,000,000. Of this sum, the State and local governments received about $10,000,000 and the Federal Government $5,000,000. These taxes would be wiped out if the State purchased the private utilities and this burden would necessarily have to be shifted to other property.

Respectfully submitted,

LEONARD J. DIFANI.
WALTER H. DUVAL.

DATED: May 21, 1937.

By order of the President, 1500 extra copies of the above report were ordered printed in addition to those appearing in the Journal.

Statement Concerning Senate Bill No. 773.

By Senator DeLap, made on his request for concurrence in Assembly amendments:

Senate Bill No. 773, as amended by the Assembly on May 21st, and 26th, is now written into Senate Bill No. 953.

As amended, the farmer, the merchant, and the cooperative associations are excluded from the Transportation License Tax Act when they are transporting their own goods in their own vehicles, even though a differential in price exists between the farm, or the merchants' place of business, and the point of delivery.

However, in the case of a merchant who wishes to add a specific charge for transportation, the 3 per cent transportation tax would apply to such charges.

The exemption for the farmers and cooperatives is broad enough so that if they add a charge for delivery, they would still be excluded from the act.

This bill, as well as Senate Bill No. 953, should be approved and sent to the Governor.

Mr. PIERCE: Your Committee on Finance is willing and anxious to follow the Attorney General in this direction.

For the complete program of the course,

On November 1, 1955, I received a letter from him that on April 1, 1955, I appeared at A. Hefner-Wesner's Symposium on the Biology of the Great Lakes of Minnesota. That I, Dr. Schindler, occupied the first vacant position (January 15, 1956) seemed to me the proper and natural result of the Symposium.

and reinstatement of licenses for operators and chauffeurs. Whenever any operator's or chauffeur's license is suspended, revoked or reinstated, a copy of that order is immediately transmitted to the police and other law enforcement agencies, as well as to the local office of the California Highway Patrol. In addition to this individual notice, the department prepares a monthly record of suspensions, revocations, and reinstatements, which is furnished to local law enforcement officers. The facilities of the department have always been completely available to local enforcement officers, and any request for information concerning the license of any individual driver is immediately answered by the department giving all available information from the records of the department.

Expenditures of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The interim committee's report dealing with the expenditures of the department treats its expenditures by divisions whereas such expenditures must be considered from a departmental standpoint as each and every division of the department is so closely interwoven with each other that it can not be separated and all divisions must operate as one unit and as a department.

The interim committee states that an examination of the State budget during past years and for the coming biennium disclose increasing expenditures by the department, which they conclude are excessive and out of proportion to the services actually rendered. It appears this statement has been made primarily upon comparing the total vehicle registrations of each year against the budget allowed. This would be logical and proper if such figures actually showed the increased activities and services rendered from year to year. One must stop and consider, however, some of the details in connection with a registration and the volume of work handled in order to obtain a fair idea of the necessary expense to render these services required by law and demanded by the public. It must be remembered that California is second only to the State of New York in number of vehicles registered.

The following statements enumerate a few of the activities and services which were rendered by the Division of Registration during the year 1936:

There were two million four hundred seventy-six thousand (2,476,000) vehicles registered. It was therefore necessary for the Division of Registration to make eleven records on each registration or a total of twenty-seven million two hundred thirty-six thousand (27,236,000) records. There were filed in the Sacramento office seven million four hundred twenty-eight thousand (7,428,000) individual items and, in addition thereto, a public record list of all registrations for the general use of the public, and a list for apportionment purposes.

The Division of Registration maintained in its Los Angeles office and in its San Francisco office complete numerical files by license numbers of all registrations for the convenience of the public and the law enforcement officers of those cities. The maintenance of these files required the filing of an additional three million nine hundred fifty-two thousand (5,952,000) items. In addition to the records for 1936, these two branch offices also maintained numerical files by license numbers for the year 1935 which contain in excess of six million (6,000,000) records.

The Division of Registration handled one million one hundred twenty-four thousand eight hundred eighty-four (1,124,884) transfers which required the making of eleven records on each, and the filing of five million six hundred twenty-four thousand four hundred twenty (5,624,420) additional items in the files mentioned.

In order to handle this number of transfers, the records of the department were searched one million one hundred twenty-four thousand eight hundred eighty-four (1,124,884) times, and each and every application was checked and verified against the stolen and embezzled car files as required by law.

There were ninety-four thousand nine hundred forty-seven (94,947) chattel mortgages on vehicles deposited with the department. All were examined to see that they were properly certified by a notary, that the mortgagee thereon was either the legal owner of record or was going on as the new legal owner, that in each case the certified copy of the chattel mortgage compared with the certificate of ownership forwarded therewith and that the mortgage covered the vehicle described in the certificate of ownership. The filing of chattel mortgages requires extensive correspondence as the mortgagees in thousands of cases fail to present the proper clearance papers or discrepancies appear which prevent the department from effecting transfer. In coping with the banks and finance companies, by whom the majority of mortgages are deposited, the department has developed a "Notice of deposit," in triplicate form, which is used extensively. When a chattel mortgage is deposited at Sacramento these forms are stamped to show the date received and are then filed in the three records of the department.

There were two hundred nineteen thousand six hundred ninety-eight (219,698) no fee nonresident permits issued and it was necessary to examine the foreign State registration cards in each case before the permit could be issued. In connection therewith, it was necessary to make and file in the Sacramento office six hundred fifty-nine thousand ninety-four (659,094) individual records.

The Bureau of Registration issued in 1936 four thousand five hundred sixty eight plates for automobiles and one thousand eight hundred and one for trucks, vans and light trailers and also a number of new permits for use on the highways. There are four thousand of these which are subject to annual renewal. The Bureau also has issued permits for motorcycles amounting to six hundred and thirty of the latter group to be driving in light duty in farm areas.

The Department also handles many requests for permits for persons with licenses from other states, especially those of the States of California, Oregon, Nevada and Idaho. The Bureau will accept all permits subject to such laws as California has and will issue such permits subject to such laws as California has. The Bureau will also accept all permits subject to such laws as California has. The Bureau will also accept all permits subject to such laws as California has. There were 13,742 licenses suspended in 1936 which compared to 1932 shows an increase of 331 per cent.

There were 2,186 licenses canceled and revoked in 1936 which compared to 1932 shows an increase of over 500 per cent.

There were 79,996 applications for duplicate licenses in 1936 which had to be verified and checked against the filed records before a duplicate could be issued.

There were also a great number of cases required to be acted upon by the Division of Drivers' Licenses covering operators who failed to satisfy a judgment and who were required to surrender their licenses and the registration of their vehicles which entailed a tremendous amount of detail checking and correspondence in order to handle.

The Division of Accounting in order to properly compile records on registrations so that the motor vehicle and gas tax fees are properly apportioned to the counties according to residence addresses of the registered owners are required to maintain a very accurate and minute detail report of all registrations and all fees received.

In order to properly and efficiently handle the budgeting and disbursements of the funds allotted for the support of the department the Division of Accounting is required to maintain a detail system of accounts.

The Division of Accounting also in order to maintain a proper cost accounting record on all motor vehicle equipment purchased and used by the department has established a cost record which has enabled the department to purchase vehicles that have proven by actual use to be both economical and efficient in operation.

The committee has stated: "It should be remembered that the California Vehicle Act, as revised in 1923, contained substantially the present code provisions relating to registration, the issuance of certificates of ownership and registration cards, the examination and licensing of drivers and other provisions. Since 1923, there has not been radical amendment to the vehicle laws imposing additional duties or functions upon the above mentioned divisions of the department, except in one or two respects." This statement is erroneous and misleading. Any person fully cognizant of the provisions of the 1923 Vehicle Act will admit that amendments passed in the intervening years from 1923 to 1935, as well as new provisions which have been enacted, have greatly increased the duties and functions of the respective divisions of the department.

I charged the California Highway Patrol with the duty of carrying out the provisions of the Caravan Act where I felt it rightfully belonged. The personnel previously engaged in the enforcement of this act consisted of those men stationed at the various border checking stations. This personnel at one time was a part of the Division of Registration but in order to better supervise the work of the checking stations including the enforcement of the Caravan Act the entire personnel was transferred to the California Highway Patrol. The funds previously provided in the budget of the Division of Registration for the maintenance of these stations were likewise transferred to the Highway Patrol and became a part of its operating budget.

The committee's assertion that a substantial part of the functions of the department having to do with registration and examining of operators and chauffeurs has been thrust upon the personnel of the Highway Patrol and are met out of its budget indicates a misunderstanding of the actual facts.

Let us go back a few years and review the establishment of the main county patrol offices prior to 1929 when they were brought under State control. At that time each county had its own patrol, established primarily for the purpose of patrolling the highways. In performing their work, they encountered violators of the registration and operators laws and through a procedure considered proper and endeavoring to assist the motorist and citizenry of their county the patrolman would take the applicant to the patrol office and help him prepare the necessary application for registration or an operator's license. In some counties there were no patrol offices, so the patrolman would assist the applicant either on the roadside or at his home. This service grew to be a part of every patrolman's life and a duty that the motorist expected from him. In 1929 when all county patrolmen were placed in State service and through the following years this practice has continued so that today every office of the Highway Patrol is a vital and important link of the organization of the department, and is so considered by the motoring public. This condition being a fact, and in order to render a better service to the public without any additional expense to it, I ordered the distribution of 1936 license plates through the patrol offices located in towns and cities in which the Division of Registration did not have an established office. During the renewal period of 1936, the patrol offices issued approximately 250,000 sets of automobile license plates. They also accepted many thousands of applications and fees for the registration of commercial vehicles all of which was a direct service enjoyed by the motoring public for the first time. This additional work in many instances was performed by members of the patrol who were incapacitated to such an extent that they were not physically fit for patrol duty.

As previously stated, a departmental Bureau of Personnel was established which has ten (10) civil service employees as its total complement, and the Bureau of Statistics was likewise made a part of administration and has a personnel complement of twenty-one (21).

All employees of the administration staff were bona fide civil service employees of the department before being transferred to administration with the single exception of the administrative adviser.

Considering the committee's comments relative to salary adjustments in the lower brackets and with respect to traffic officers, it is pointed out that in the biennial budgets submitted for legislative approval in 1931, 1933 and 1935 as well as the budget now before you for consideration, provisions were and have been made for appropriate revisions and increase in salaries for the entire department. The appropriations provided for in 1931, 1933 and 1935 were approved by the Legislature. You are aware, however, of the conditions which have existed during the past six years in so far as the general finances of the State are concerned and realize that in view of such conditions a policy was established which prohibited a general revision and increase in salaries until such time as the general finances would permit.

The Division of Drivers' Licenses.

The interim committee has dealt mainly in generalities concerning the Division of Drivers' Licenses. The division has been given every assistance which appropriations to the department would permit and the division has been expanded and has been able to do more effective work in eliminating dangerous and unsafe drivers from the highways than ever before.

The service which the Division of Drivers' Licenses could render to the motorists of California is still materially restricted by the lack of adequate funds. More careful and thorough examinations of drivers' license applicants should be given than the budget of the division now permits. The greatest work which the division can perform in making the highways safe is the work, begun principally during the past biennium, of taking away the privilege of operating motor vehicles from those persons who, by their actual driving record, either by being involved in a number of accidents or by numerous convictions for violation of the safety provisions of the traffic laws or both have proved that they can not or will not operate vehicles with safety to themselves or others upon the highway. This work of the division has scarcely been begun and promises, with reasonable financial support, to be very effective in curbing deaths upon the highways.

The funds proposed in the budget—1937-1939, are practically the amount now being expended by the Division of Drivers' Licenses, and in order to enable the division to further improve its functions, additional funds should be allotted to the division. In so far as I am concerned I have no objection to "ear-marking" additional funds for the division.

Cost of Maintaining the California Highway Patrol.

The interim committee has made a chart showing the total personnel and the cost of operation of the California Highway Patrol from 1929 to 1936 and infers that the duties of the California Highway Patrol have not been sufficiently increased during the intervening years to warrant the additional cost as shown for the year 1936. The department can well substantiate the expenses incurred and, while it is impossible to cover all factors concerning the operating cost of the patrol during each of these years, your attention is called to a few of the major items which have caused an increase in personnel and cost of operation.

In 1929, the total personnel of the Highway Patrol, including officers and clerical help, was only 417 but in 1932, the California Highway Patrol took over the entire personnel of the Los Angeles Motor Patrol, Mono County, Inyo County and Alpine County, which added 90 employees to the existing personnel.

Between July, 1933, and July, 1934, the personnel of the Highway Patrol, including clerks, investigators, patrolmen, etc., was increased by 42 new members. From July, 1934, to July, 1935, there was an increase in the total membership of the personnel of 66. The majority of this personnel consisted of traffic clerks who were assigned to the county offices of the Highway Patrol thus relieving the members of the patrol for patrol duties.

Between July 1, 1935, and December 31, 1936, there was an increase of 95 in the total personnel of the patrol, 37 of this increase of personnel was necessary in order to patrol the new Oakland San Francisco Bay Bridge. The rest of the new officers and clerks were assigned to augment the patrols and clerical force in the various counties.

In order that the patrol could more efficiently combat modern traffic and crime problems, it became necessary to install up-to-date radio equipment in a large number of California Highway Patrol cars.

In 1929 the patrol was not required to patrol the highways at night. The Legislature of 1931, however, provided for the patrol of the highways at night as well as the daytime which materially affected its operation and cost.

Each succeeding session of the Legislature has added duties to the Highway Patrol, such as enforcing the edicts of the State Railroad Commission, enforcing of the suspension of operators who have failed to pay their tax to the Board of in the time devoted to the subject. The interim committee states that both it and the advisory committee were surprised to learn of the many duties imposed upon the Highway Patrol and particularly that so many of the functions of the Division of Registration and the Division of Drivers' Licenses have been transferred to and imposed upon the patrol. As previously pointed out, that prior to the creation of the California Highway Patrol and since its inception the public has relied upon the patrolmen and the various county offices for services appertaining to all functions of the department. It is a service to which the public is rightfully entitled, and should any attempt be made to adopt or enforce any rule or regulation to deprive the public of this service, the indignation of the public would be heard over the length and breadth of the State.

Your attention is called to the specific provisions of the Vehicle Code which sets forth the duties of the Highway Patrol and particularly to sections 108 and 135. Section 108 provides that the work of the department shall be divided into at least two divisions to be known respectively as the Division of Registration and the Division of Enforcement to be known as the California Highway Patrol. Section 135 specifically provides that the primary duty of the California Highway Patrol shall be the enforcement of the provisions of this code and of any and all other acts respecting the use or operation of vehicles upon public highways. In view of these provisions no functions of the Division of Registration or of the Division of Drivers' Licenses have been transferred to or imposed upon the Highway Patrol except in the instance when certain patrol offices assisted in the distribution of license plates during the renewal periods of 1936 and 1937 which has been covered by previous comments.

As facts will disclose, neither the Division of Registration, the Division of Drivers' Licenses, Division of Accounting or Administration have any police powers of enforcement officers which of necessity compels them to look to and depend upon the Highway Patrol to enforce the provisions of the code.

Activities of the California Highway Patrol.

Exclusive of the executive personnel, clerical help, district inspectors and captains, the Highway Patrol consists of 601 uniformed traffic officers whose primary duties are to patrol the highways. Of this number, the 1936 records will show an average of 25 men absent each day due to injuries and illness, 120 men absent each day due to earned days off and vacations, 50 men incapacitated for patrol work due to injuries in line of duty but who were engaged in other activities of the patrol making a daily average of 204 men unavailable for road patrol work. Of the remaining daily average of 397 available men, 247 men were assigned to daylight patrol duty and 150 men for night patrol duty and to perform other duties imposed upon the patrol by statute.

In addition to the men actually assigned regular patrol duties, there are also captains and district inspectors of the patrol that operate upon the highways and do patrol work in conjunction with their other supervisory duties.

There are 20,120 miles of paved highways and 58,648 miles of improved secondary highways, making a total mileage of 78,768. The 20,120 miles of paved highways must be patrolled regularly, thus, considering the average number of men available for patrol duty, there is one officer for each 81.45 miles during daylight hours, and one officer for each 134.01 miles at night. In addition to patrolling the paved highways, the 58,648 miles of secondary highways must be patrolled at various intervals. One can therefore readily see the imperative need for additional patrolmen.

The committee states it is preferred to have all patrolmen conspicuous on the highway, however, in view of the above facts, it is difficult to see how the patrolmen can be conspicuous except by rarity.

The interim committee comments upon the activities of the patrol with respect to the checking of garages for abandoned and stolen motor vehicles and wrecking establishments and auto camps. You are respectfully referred to section 135, paragraph "D" of the Vehicle Code which requires the Highway Patrol "To inspect any vehicle of a type required to be registered hereunder on a highway or in any garage or repair shop for the purpose of locating stolen vehicles and investigating the title and registration thereof." This readily shows that these activities are prerogatives of the patrol, and not exclusive duties of the local police.

Concerning school bus regulations and the inspection of the equipment used, and the use of officers trained in the requirements and provisions of the code in giving traffic safety talks, a study of the actual statistics will prove that during the past year the activity has materially reduced the number of accidents causing injuries and deaths to our school children. I do not believe that you or the parents of our children would want this work discontinued. Certainly any action that we can take that will add to the safety of our children is not to be considered in terms of dollars and cents.

Concerning the committee's report relative to "Escorting large caravans" the department has given this matter considerable thought and has endeavored in every way possible to reduce this type of activity for the patrolmen. However, it must be borne in mind, and as the Attorney General of the State of California tax rates, operators only can be prevented from operating upon the highways and that it is the duty of the Highway Patrol to see that such operators are operated only due safety to other highway users.

The measures here first mentioned along the lines performed by the patrol with regard to the removal of vehicles and transportation of persons. In these measures, your attention is called to the importance of the rules contained in section 244, paragraph (2), which require the Highway Patrol. "To secure full compliance with the requirements of this rule." This activity is not designed to get out of the way of the accident. The transportation of persons is an emergency with the consideration of the duty of saving persons and the authority conferred by the Department to make recommendations since that this activity is contemplated with more dispatch and less delay than any other method that could be employed.

The Traffic Accident Situation—National and Traffic Accident Situation in California

The measures mentioned in traffic problems are based primarily upon accident and human factors in the accident itself. Control and those suggested by this Department and to be used by the traffic accident situation in the future are based upon the principle which would require that the accident situation be the subject of reducing such accidents. This accident situation, in fact, always will be a permanent problem and this fact must be recognized.

The measures mentioned in traffic accidents are given a full picture in working order. For each accident, the Department is given a full picture in working order. The accident of each accident is given a full picture in working order as well as the accident of each accident. The accident of each accident is given a full picture in working order as well as the accident of each accident.

With this in mind, the Department has suggested some ways of preventing the accident of each accident. The Department has suggested some ways of preventing the accident of each accident. The Department has suggested some ways of preventing the accident of each accident.

Department will show that it is possible to prevent the accident of each accident. The Department will show that it is possible to prevent the accident of each accident. The Department will show that it is possible to prevent the accident of each accident.

These facts being fully recognized, there is no question that the accident of each accident is the accident of each accident. The accident of each accident is the accident of each accident. The accident of each accident is the accident of each accident.

The measures which are suggested here are the subject of accident of each accident. The measures which are suggested here are the subject of accident of each accident. The measures which are suggested here are the subject of accident of each accident.

It is in your Department's interest to see that the accident of each accident is the accident of each accident. The accident of each accident is the accident of each accident. The accident of each accident is the accident of each accident.

The measures mentioned here are the subject of accident of each accident. The measures mentioned here are the subject of accident of each accident. The measures mentioned here are the subject of accident of each accident.

By dividing the number of gallons of gasoline used in each State in the New York, 691 gallons per car, Pennsylvania 671, Illinois 701, California 688.

Dividing the number of miles of highways in each of these States we discover that in New York there are 27.8 miles per mile of available highway, in Pennsylvania 20.1, in Illinois 22.7 and in California 27.7.

Thus the average car in New York and California travels about the same distance per year and the density of cars on the highway are virtually identical. Since the population of New York is more than double that of California, and since the population is divided within an area smaller than the size of California, one would expect that accident conditions would be worse in New York than in California, if it is true that the traffic accident problem depends on population density, or urbanization. Yet, on the basis of gasoline consumption, the death rate in New York is lower than in California. It is also worth noting that this rate, while stationary in New York (1 per cent plus) in California has shown a 12 per cent drop in the years from 1930 to 1935.

The traffic accident problem is in no sense finally solved in New York since there were 79,592 accidents in 1935. (Report, Bureau of Motor Vehicles, Legislative Document No. 11, 1936 Appendix.) Bearing in mind the data indicating the greater degree of urbanization in New York one might anticipate, following the committee's argument, a greater severity of accidents there as expressed by the ratio of accidents to deaths. Dividing deaths into all accidents in New York the chance of a fatality in case one is involved in an accident is one in 27. This contrasts with California where there is one chance of a death in 19 city accidents and one chance in 6 in rural accidents. While it is not necessary to erect a contradictory hypothesis in order to demonstrate the unsoundness of the opinions of the interim committee on this point, it appears not illogical to infer that the lesser degree of severity in New York accidents when compared with California accidents is a function of their location and type, i.e., city accidents of less severity.

The Summary presented the following:

There are a number of other factors that can affect the results of a survey. For example, the way the questions are asked can influence the responses. The order of the questions can also affect the results. The length of the survey can also be a factor. A longer survey may lead to more fatigue and less accurate responses. The mode of administration (e.g., paper vs. electronic) can also have an impact. Finally, the representativeness of the sample is crucial. If the sample is not representative of the population, the results will be biased.

The President of the Senate directed the Sergeant-at-Arms to close the doors.

The Biographical Index having been furnished with the names of the candidates, was directed to bring them to the bar of the Senate.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 12. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure, necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

The indebtedness of special improvement districts payable from ad valorem assessments or from general taxes is, in many instances, greater than the property within the district can bear. Pyramiding of the taxes and assessments has resulted in districts becoming almost entirely delinquent and in preventing the upbuilding and development of the lands in such districts. In many of such districts general taxes and the special assessments have been delinquent for several years. In many of such districts large blocks of land have been sold to the State for delinquency in the payment of taxes and assessments and deeds to the State have been issued thereon. Property in these districts which comprise substantial areas is almost entirely unproductive of revenue for school, city and county purposes. In some districts this lack of revenue has hampered and prevented the city from providing adequate police and fire protection, sanitation and other health facilities. By refunding the obligations of such districts under this act, delinquent general taxes will be paid speedily, the properties will be restored to the tax roll and tax revenues will be provided to meet the urgent needs of the cities, school districts and counties. Unless this relief is immediately given, many thousands of property owners will lose their property, millions of dollars in taxes will be uncollectible, and funds necessary to provide for the safety and health of the inhabitants of many districts will not be supplied. The immediate refinancing of the indebtedness of these districts as provided in this act will save property owners from loss of their property, restore property to the tax rolls, provide funds needed for public safety, sanitation and health purposes, and permit building and development now stopped by fear of pyramiding.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 14. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and shall therefore go into effect immediately.

The facts constituting the necessity are as follows:

In Sonoma County and in other portions of the State many persons are eager to form recreation districts under the act amended by this bill but under the act as at present are unable to undertake any work thereunder because of lack of authority to issue bonds. If this act is passed and takes immediate effect then work will start upon the various structures authorized by this act immediately thus relieving in part the unemployment which despite improved economic conditions still exists.

If this act does not take effect until ninety days after the adjournment of the session it will not be possible to construct swimming pools and other structures in time for the summer season of 1937 and the work may be delayed for over a year to the great detriment both to the people in the proposed recreation districts themselves and to the economic well-being of the State of California as a whole.

The facts constituting such necessity are as follows: Owing to the aftermath of the present financial depression and the diminution of taxes resulting therefrom and the consequent lack of money and funds wherewith to defray the expense of State governmental functions and duties, it is imperative for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety that the State conserve its money and funds and in particular that its costs and expenses for maintaining, housing and furnishing office space for its agencies be reduced to the most economical figure to the end that it may be able to maintain and discharge its governmental functions and duties. That by purchasing and improving real property at the present time and by means of the appropriation heretofore mentioned, and using the property for State purposes, the State will be enabled to obtain space and accommodations at a figure compatible and commensurable with the exigencies of its present financial ability to pay therefor. Unless the real property is purchased and improved and used for State purposes at the present time the State will be unable to discharge its duties properly or at all, or to house, care for, and protect the property of this State, and as a result its governmental functions and duties will be impaired.

the county for the fiscal year 1934-1935, were, in round figures, $45,000 increasing to $54,000 the following year, to $210,000 for the year just ending and with an estimated $400,000 for next year. This is of course for all relief in these groups, not aliens alone. It should also be noted that the Old Age Security Act is the only relief law of this State which requires citizenship.

The county with the greatest demands upon it for alien relief was of course Los Angeles, while only Mono County reported no aliens on relief. Proportionately, Imperial County has the most difficult situation.

The most complete report, in the short time available, came from Sacramento County and this report is worthy of careful analysis. It points out for example that in the county hospital 24.3 per cent of the patients are aliens. However, present admissions to the hospital show a reducing figure which indicates that some of our alien problem is due to previous immigration policies rather than to a present policy.

The same report shows a total of over $1,000,000 spent in the county for relief to aliens which is approximately 18 per cent of the county total.

The report from the Department of Penology shows that approximately 16 per cent of the inmates of our penal institutions are aliens (19 per cent in San Quentin, 11 per cent in Folsom and 14 per cent in Tehachapi). Perhaps we should consider the larger percentage in San Quentin as of interest, as this is our prison for first offenders. Of the 987 foreign-born inmates in San Quentin, 294 have deportation proceedings pending against them.

Briefly, therefore, all that can be reported to the Senate prior to the adjournment of the fifty-second session is that this is a problem of vital importance. We are unquestionably spending over $5,000,000 a year in California in the support of men and women on our relief rolls who are not citizens of the United States. Even if we admit the necessity of caring for these men and women, the question still arises whether this is a county and State problem or distinctly a Federal problem. It is a question which should be given a thorough investigation at the earliest possible moment. Some arrangement should be made to conclude the analysis of the figures still coming in as the result of the resolution of May 10th so that these may be sent later to the members of the Senate.

Respectfully submitted.

JOHN PHILLIPS.

Amendment No. 1.

On page 2, line 3, of the printed bill, as amended May 25, 1937, strike out the word "money", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "money, and taking in the name of the lender, or in any other name, in whole or in part, as security for such loan, any contract or obligation involving the forfeiture of rights in or to personal property, the use and possession of which property is retained by other than the mortgagee or lender, or all who are engaged in the business of lending money and taking in the name of the lender, or in any other name, in whole or in part as security for such loan, any lien on, assignment of, or power of attorney relative to wages, salary, earnings, income or commission."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 2 of the printed bill, as amended May 25, 1937, strike out lines 12 to 16, inclusive.

Amendment No. 3.

On page 5 of the printed bill, as amended May 25, 1937, strike out lines 45 to 51, inclusive, and on page 6, strike out lines 1 to 16, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"1. Deliver to the borrower at the time the loan is made either a copy of each paper signed by the borrower, or a statement in the English language setting forth the name and address of the borrower; the name, address and license number of the personal property broker and of the broker (if any); the date and amount of but no State has made the law effective. Your bill as passed by Senate should become law. Better pass no law than the one passed by Assembly.

Best Wishes.

WILLIAM T. FOSTER."

The above telegram was read to the Conference Committee. These amendments do not suit me for I do not think it is fair as no one, in my opinion, is going to loan $50 and receive in return 2 per cent interest per month, or one dollar as a total compensation. We find ourselves in this position. Eighteen bills on this subject were introduced and 17 killed. It is the last day of the session. We must decide whether to pass this bill and try it out for two years or kill it and leave the sky the limit.

Salary bond brokers are getting from 2 to 600 per cent annually, and the personal experience of one of my dear friends, which I have already told you about, forced him to pay on a $50 loan approximately 100 per cent per annum, with a $300 car as security.

Ninety per cent of our citizens can not borrow money from our banks, and today they are the prey of the avaricious bond brokers. Something must be done, although I feel the 2 per cent interest to the personal bond broker's reloads in the smaller brackets is too low on $50 to $100 loans at least.

I voted concurrence for the following reasons: First, I believe in the rule of the majority, but my colleagues have out-voted me. Second, we must have regulation. I feel my obligation is to the large majority of unfortunate people who have to borrow. Time only can tell whether this bill, if passed, is just or not. Personally, I think the rate of interest to small loans should be 3 per cent, instead of 2 per cent.

With this explanation the responsibility is yours how to vote on this question.

SENATOR FLETCHER.

product, the general store and other organized distributors and advertise intensively throughout the United States the sale of chosen produce at a price very reasonable to the consumer and profitable to the producer and distributor. Heavy contributions were made to this advertising fund by the producers and by the distributors. The result of this drive is enlightening. It resulted in getting together for the first time in the sale of any fruit, the grower, the processor and the distributor. This had a most encouraging result. The crop was readily moved at a fair price to all. It created a demand among our people for fresh fruit just as well as for Jell-O, Jellwell, Royal Pudding, and other competitive substitutes. It increased the demand and the taste among our people not only for peaches, but for fruit generally. It helped to correct what appears to be a fact, that the American people consume 28 per cent less fruit than they should for a well balanced diet. It stopped the sale of peaches at a loss, which would thereby bring down the price of all fruit and it did what seems to be remarkable—it increased the sale of foodstuff by distributing stores 5 per cent more in all lines during the week of the peach drive than the weeks preceding such drive. In other words, the money spent by the distributor in helping to sell the surplus in peaches held up the price of other competing articles and increased generally the sales of foodstuffs by such stores or distributing agencies. Therefore it seems possible to increase the demand for the purchase of any agricultural commodity by an intensive educational and advertising campaign.

It is encouraging to know that there is a movement on foot to continue this stabilizing committee and to continue this effort, and it includes in its ranks all cooperative organizations, farm organizations, such as farm bureaus, the Grange, and the producers, generally.

Mr. Merritt rather eloquently stated, "We have been hiding our light under a bushel," and with the help of legislation heretofore enacted and the organization of growers and the help of various distributing agencies the outlook for marketing of agricultural products seems now to be more hopeful.

The efforts heretofore mentioned resulted in changing a condition where the producer was selling one million cases of peaches less each year for several years to where the opposite was true, that is the market was immediately stabilized and the products sold at a profit to the grower. It is clear that there must be a same cooperative effort continued between the grower and all organized distributors. Consumers do not purchase that which they know nothing of. Consumers must be told of the existence and the merits of a commodity before they desire to purchase it. In this particular commodity the producer and the processor contemplate spending 50 cents a ton this year in creating a market for the peach crop. The price determined on by this joint action should be one in which the producer will receive a fair price, the canner receive a profit and the distributor receive his usual margin between cost and retail price.

New York Meeting.

Mr. W. T. Webber, Sales Manager of the California Walnut Growers Association, appeared before our committee and gave a very illuminating account of a joint meeting held in New York City on last May 26th and 27th, between members of the executive committee and others of the Food and Grocery Chain Stores of America, Inc., and a special committee of the National Cooperative Council. He explained that the first group represented an aggregate of some 22,000 retail units throughout the United States, and the National Cooperative Council being an organization of farm cooperatives consisting of some 4,000 individual cooperative marketing organizations and representing a total of 1,500,000 farmer-members over the entire country.

This meeting was held as a result of an invitation extended by President Hunter C. Pickett of the Chain Stores Association to Vice President C. C. Teague of the Cooperative Council.

Your committee went into the study of the joint activities of the chain store and other distributing agents, and the cooperative council, not for the purpose of interesting itself in the problems of the chain stores but to determine the value to consumers of the methods undertaken by them to benefit the farmer and producer in the marketing of his products. We were hopeful that the methods adopted by this concerted group might possibly be useful to the members of the Legislature in determining the value of present legislation and possibly the need for other and better legislation. And it must be kept in mind in the reading of this report, that is the only purpose of the committee in going into these matters.

At the meeting the following persons were present representing companies and associations:

Hunter C. Pickett, president, David Pender Grocery Company, Norfolk, Virginia.

Chas. F. Adams, treasurer, and B. F. Goldrick, vice president, First National Stores, Inc., Boston, Mass.

Lewis W. Cole, chairman, Steiden Stores, Inc., Louisville, Kentucky.

Thomas P. Cauley, president, Danahy-Faxon Stores, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

labor they can not be induced to join the movement toward socialism or communism; but when they can not make a fair living they will perhaps listen to demagogues and agitators.

You who have a large capital interest in chain stores and a large stake in the capitalistic system certainly have an interest in keeping the farmer in the capitalistic class.

How serious this is can be judged by the report of the National Industrial Conference Board on farm income.

The National Industrial Conference Board, a statist organization with offices at New York City, reports that there are 5,565,000 farmers in the United States; that the proportion of the national income of these farmers was in 1929, 8812 per family, in 1932, 8424. Such reward is altogether insufficient to this important group of American society engaged in producing the food and fibre supply of the American people. Public welfare demands that the economic conditions and purchasing power of this important group be improved if they continue to be what they always have been—an important part of the sound thinking American public.

General R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Company, recently declared: 'The population classed as rural, including towns of 2,500 and under, amounts to 53,000,000 or approximately 40 per cent of our population, and all of this population may be said to be directly dependent on agriculture. Not only the population of the small town, but also the bulk of the population of other towns and cities in the territory of the Mississippi are dependent on agriculture, for there is little manufacturing in this section.'

You frequently see the statement that farmers constitute scarcely 25 per cent of the gainfully employed, but this statement does not tell the story, for 40 per cent of our population is directly dependent on agriculture and the other 60 per cent of the population is indirectly dependent on agriculture as the primary wealth.

I have referred to the social side of the farm problem, and in many ways it is the most important side of the problem. If I read my history rightly, no urban civilization has perpetuated itself. There are many reasons for this—time forbids my going into them. A body of independent freeholders living on the land, has been in all times and in all places the strength of a State. If our American State is to endure, we need the stability, sound thinking and patriotism of the 6,000,000 American farmers. If they become impoverished, if we have a body of poor farm tenants resting upon large landholders, our social order will indeed be threatened. As I see it, it is the patriotic duty and the very deep interest of every American industrialist to do everything in his power to promote the stability and the prosperity of the American farmer. It is equally the duty of labor for in the best analysis the jobs and wages of labor depend on the flow of new primary wealth from the farm.'

The understanding of our committee, therefore, is that we are here at the invitation of the chains to give them our opinion based on our wide contacts with agricultural producers as to the reasons for the unsympathetic attitude of agriculture generally toward the chains. After careful consideration we have given the opinion in the foregoing statement.

We have no doubt that, from the point of view of the chains, these practices can be justified. While, of course, the committee will be glad to listen to any explanation or discussion of these practices, we are confident that the belief upon which the opposition to agriculture is based is so deep seated and general that it will not be possible to dissipate it unless these practices are eliminated or modified."

Two days of thoughtful, amiable and constructive discussion followed at that gathering, and all of the points in Mr. Teague's statement were fully considered, it appearing that the chain stores and large distributors were dependent upon fostering cooperative agriculture so that they might receive an adequate and dependable quantity of agricultural products for sale. The cooperative group expressed the opinion that it was unwise and improper for one group of distributors to demand and enjoy advantages over other groups in the same class but at lesser size and having power. It was pointed out that unfair advantages according to the receipt of brokerage, discounts and unearned advertising allowances are detrimental to the best interests of agriculture, smaller distributors, and the nation as well.

Following the discussion of that meeting the following resolutions were adopted:

"WHEREAS, Over a period of years the competition in the buying of the products of the farm at the point of production has resulted in certain practices among middlemen dealing in agricultural products of charging and demanding brokerage allowances and other price concessions which are interpreted by the producers as being against their best interests; and

WHEREAS, Today, in the orderly marketing of larger quantities of farm produce by cooperative organizations and others, the adoption of a new price basis, free of any claim by the buyer or brokerage or any unearned allow-

He said that the President of the Federal Commodities Corporation told him they had allocated some millions of dollars at this time to buy these distressed cattle, but found as a result of the drive by retail distributors to dispose of the meat, that it wasn't necessary for them to buy any quantity of cattle. It was a very small sum they spent. Not over 1 per cent of the sum allocated was spent to buy cattle, because there was no need for it. (Idem.)

Mr. Webber stated that as a result of the drive heretofore mentioned in the sale of peaches, dried fruits and meat, that the independent retailers over the country sold proportionately as much peaches and as much dried fruits and as much meat as did the better organized chain stores. He emphasized again that the bases of the success of the whole movement was that distributors can not by virtue of their large buying and distributing power, expect or demand or force the farmers to sell their products for less than they will sell to a distributor of the same class, but who has not the tremendous buying power. (Page 47 idem.)

Mr. Webber stated that in his opinion the movement did as much for the independent grocers as it did for agriculture, for the simple reason that it convinced the chain stores that they should discontinue the practice of meeting or lower prices. That if the competitor to the chain store is not allowed to live and prosper, more than one half of our retail outlets in the country are lost to agriculturists. (Page 48 idem.)

Mr. Webber stated in substance that the walnut industry was not especially benefited by the movement because it was not especially needed. In that case the California Walnut Growers Association has control of 85 per cent of all walnuts grown, and is in a position therefore, to control the marketing of that commodity and also to carry on sufficient advertising to make the industry prosperous, and it is not comparable to most of the other agricultural crops. (Page 50 idem.) where, in the case of the dried fruit there was a great surplus and prices were increased following the drive, although they did not reach the desired price level.

Principle Back of Advertising.

Mr. Webber was asked by Senator Deuel, "Can you enlarge the capacity of the human stomach?" His answer was as follows:

"That is a moot question, Senator. The direct result of these things is the statistics put out by the people who were in charge of the campaigns and it indicates that the sale of directly competitive products was not hurt. For example, on the theory perhaps that the man or woman who wants lamb will buy lamb, but she will use the turkey in addition because of the heavy advertising and the sales push that is behind it. In other words, it isn't so much the question of enlarging the human stomach as it is to get them to use more of certain kinds of food; for example, the beef and meat deal, as I understand it, the only effect it had was upon imported canned meats, the only noticeable effect on the sale of any product of that sort. For example, lamb sold just as well (at least, I understand it did), but they just eased up.

Again Senator Deuel asked: "Then there must have been an increased capacity to consume?"

Mr. Warren's answer was as follows:

"Not necessarily; the people can eat and do eat more of certain lines at one time than they will at another. Certain classes of people can eat more, and would eat more, if sold on the idea; and that, of course, is what is back of all advertising. I think the peach deal didn't hurt the canned pineapple at all, but certain allied things that went with peaches, (perhaps the things that go to make desserts that peaches are in), and the sale of those products was increased along with the sale of the peaches. For example, it doesn't necessarily take a larger stomach to have a peach dessert after you have had your regular meal, but unless the peaches are put on the table, you won't eat them; and unless the housewife was urged and convinced that it would be a good thing to do so, she won't spend the money to put them on.

Mr. Webber in answering Senator Gordon's question in regard to his conclusions as to the merits of the Prorate Bill, replied in substance that he thought the Prorate Bill a very good law and very helpful; also he commended the State Marketing Act and the California A.A.A. He referred to the marketing of lemons under the Prorate Act as presumably the best example of its successful operation.

Director Brook stated that sweet potatoes and apples had also taken advantage of the Prorate Act successfully.

Mr. Bancroft appeared before your committee. He is a farmer, and spoke, he said, just as a farmer, but stated that he is chairman of the deciduous department of the Farm Bureau. He was familiar with the efforts put forth in behalf of the canned peach producers, but personally was not interested in that crop. As an official of the Farm Bureau he spoke in the interest of all farm crops, but personally is particularly interested in canned pears. He had interested himself and studied the operation in behalf of the canned peaches in order to determine whether or not the same might not be accomplished in behalf of canned pears at times when the pears were a drag on the market. He stated that the drive heretofore mentioned contacted not only 22,000 stores of the chain store group, but also extended in 1909. He said he had been in business for 20 years and he mentioned the experience of Mr. Morris that the price received was in the average range of 10¢ per bushel of apples for one of the seasons. There is but one thing that is a record there in the last 10 years, the price being 10¢ per bushel, but it was received in the last few years only of 1911-1912.

When the statistics are taken, they show that the price received for apples in 1911-1912 was 10¢ per bushel, but in 1913-1914 it was 12¢ per bushel, and in 1914-1915 it was 14¢ per bushel. This shows that the price received for apples in 1911-1912 was 10¢ per bushel, but in 1913-1914 it was 12¢ per bushel, and in 1914-1915 it was 14¢ per bushel.

He also mentioned the experience of the United Fruit Company in 1911-1912. He reported that the company had been in business for 20 years and he mentioned the experience of the company that the price received was in the average range of 10¢ per bushel of apples for one of the seasons. He brought out clearly the fact that notwithstanding all of the statutes heretofore enacted in regard to marketing apples, the situation is still the same, and this is the fact that the United Fruit Company is still in business and is still in business.

He also mentioned the experience of the United Fruit Company in 1911-1912. #### Summary of Marketing Testimony.

The foregoing is a brief summary of testimony taken by most responsible men all over the State in regard to what conditions have put forth recently in the interest of marketing of apples in the State of Washington.

It is the recommendation of the State that some of the practices which have heretofore been in vogue in the State have been managed by processors and producers who have not been in the State for a long time, and it is the recommendation of the State that some of the practices which have heretofore been in vogue in the State have been managed by processors and producers who have not been in the State for a long time.

age and commission to the farmer and of determining for him a net price, second, the abrogation of the practice of loss leaders, which also results in the sale of that commodity at less than cost and which then results in bringing down the price of all similar articles. It also shows the need of the abrogation of "advertising allowances, and quantity discounts," and also the need for the abrogation of the control or supply by direct or indirect financing of the farmer by the purchaser.

The testimony shows quite conclusively that where there is reliable information in advance that there will be a large hold-over or overproduction of a given commodity, that it is possible to move that commodity at a fair price to all without injury to the sale of other commodities. In fact the necessary advertising to dispose of the surplus results in the sale of that commodity in addition to the sale of the other commodities of a similar nature.

The testimony along this line shows that in many instances the present statutes are working favorably and to the interest of the farmers. These statutes include the California Marketing Act, the Title A and the Prorate Act.

Peach Mosaic.

At our session in Pasadena, there was presented to the committee a new problem to the peach industry. It is very distressing and painful to those engaged in a comparatively small valley known as Yucaipa, California. A delegation appeared before the committee and was presented by Assemblyman Corwin. Mr. Corwin stated as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, and Members of the Senate and Assembly Committees:

We have had a new disease descend on our peach industry known as the peach mosaic, in San Bernardino County. We have with us two of the growers from Yucaipa who want to tell us something about it, and I think Mr. A. M. Storch is the spokesman, so I will present Mr. Storch, and let him tell his story."

Mr. Storch stated he was a small orchardist and was one of the committee of the peach growers who appeared before the committee. He described an effort being put forth by the State to eradicate and to destroy orchards in that part of the country, which were claimed to be infected with the "peach mosaic" disease. He stated that the State Department of Agriculture claims the morbidly spreads like wildfire; that it is fatal to the trees and that it will ruin the fruit, but that the growers in that district do not admit these claims on the part of the State to be true. At this point in his statement the committee, at the suggestion of Senator Donel asked Director Brock to explain to the committee what he understood the problem to be and what the State was doing about it.

Mr. Brock stated that it was a disease discovered in Colorado, Arizona, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico and California; and that it had been in California for a number of years. It was originally called the 1933 peach disease because they were unable to identify it. Later on it was identified by the University of California as the same disease discovered in Colorado and other States mentioned. In Colorado the Federal Government and State shared in an eradication campaign and uprooted the infected trees, and that the department in California has started a similar campaign there.

He further stated that the department had met with stubborn resistance; the people denying it is peach mosaic, but that the department relied on experts; that the disease is incurable; that the leaves become smaller, mottled and the fruit is lumpy; the department tries to obtain the cooperation of the owner, having him sign a waiver and then removing the trees; there are somewhere around 250,000 trees affected and 6000 have been removed. Twenty thousand trees have been removed from abandoned orchards.

He stated that the information had by the department from a Dr. Conrad is that from one infected tree in a planting where they were experimenting, it spread to 60 per cent of the planting in one year's time. In Colorado they believe they have discovered the vector that carries the disease. It is a species of aphid that carries the disease.

Procedure.

Our procedure in this matter is as follows. We give the Agricultural Commissioner a statement of the danger of the disease, and it is then his duty to serve notice upon the owner of the infected property and give them a reasonable length of time in which to take out the trees. If they neglect or refuse, he must go in and perform the work himself; the cost of such work becomes a lien on the property.

Mr. Brock stated that property owners contend they should be paid and that this is a policy question for the Legislature to decide and not for the department. The department claims the Constitution prohibits a gift to any one; the property owners contend it is not a gift but indemnity would be a payment for condemned property made in the interest of the Commonwealth. There is a suit pending in the courts in regard to the entire matter.

following resolutions were passed at a meeting by directors of the California Farm Bureau Center. These resolutions read as follows:

Resolved, That we recommend that the University of California, through its Agricultural Extension Service, be designated as the State agency to administer the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act when the necessary State laws are enacted in accordance with the provisions of Federal law; be it further

Resolved, That this legislation should provide for a State committee of five farmer producers, appointed by the Dean of the College of Agriculture from a list of nominees named by the county committees or associations directors. Each county shall make one nomination for a committeeman on the State committee; be it further

Resolved, That it shall be the duty of the State committee to cooperate with the Agricultural Extension Service in the development and administration of the various programs under the act. We recommend that all possible safeguards be incorporated in the act so as to prevent interferences with the existing research, teaching and extension activities of the College of Agriculture."

The act at the present time is being administered in the State under the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture by the College of Agriculture and the Extension Service thereof in a plan similar to which the old Agricultural A A A program was administered.

This committee recommends that the thing to do is for the State Legislature to designate that same agency to administer these programs with the assistance of this committee of farm producers mentioned herein. (Page 59 idem.)

The act itself will have to make other provisions in addition to those providing for its administration and a bill or its final form had not been prepared at the time of the meeting of this committee, but it is understood that the Federal Government will pay for the financing of this activity. It is clear from the recommendations that the theory in this entire set-up is that the university would be the agency to carry out all of the provisions of the Federal Act that they will be the sole judges of the method by which the money is to be paid and of the facts in regard to every individual claim and that there will be no appeal to any court as a matter of right for any claimant who might feel the department had not followed the law in the matter.

May it not be time, now that the depression seems to be over, that some thought should be given to the distribution of public money according to general rules of law so that an impartial court can determine each claim, and that it would not entirely rest on the members of a department who receive their authority from the executive branch of the government? It would appear that the Federal Secretary of Agriculture would finally pass on appointments and all rules, regulations and activities of the local agents.

Your committee, at this time, makes no recommendations as to the feasibility of this act, the method of its administration or provisions generally. Following will be a copy of proposed act and recommendations in regard to State legislation which has been furnished the committee.

It appears that in order to qualify for benefit payment for sowing alfalfa you must comply with rules and regulations set up in regard to that crop, that they may change from time to time, may be different in different communities and the determination of compliance with the rules depends upon the interpretation by those who make them. It may be that this matter should be given careful study, however, this committee finds that should the Federal Government determine to continue this, that this State should comply in so far as possible in order to obtain what relief the Federal Government desires to give the farmers.

Tenant Farmers.

Senator Metzger presented a matter to the committee on his own motion. That is, he stated he was informed there was a great amount of tenant farming in California for the reason that bank loans are foreclosed by holding companies and that such holding companies continue operating, selling and speculating in said land and renting it and thus operating by such holding companies may continue indefinitely. He continued that it appeared to him that this was a menace to agriculture and that there should be legislation to cure such a condition. He argued that if banks were not permitted to hold that holding companies should not be permitted to hold it longer than the necessary time for liquidation. The committee is impressed by this statement and recommends consideration of some sort of reform in regard to this particular.

Brush Burning.

Senator Metzger then read into the record a copy of Senate Bill No. 1339, recorded in Chapter 302, Statutes of 1935, in regard to drive for the burning of brush and debris on water sheds for experimental purposes. He introduced a Mr. H. J. Wilson, member of the farm bureau in Tehama County. Mr. Wilson stated that their farm center in Tehama County has passed a resolution favoring having a certain

After a general discussion by the committee in regard to the matter, it was moved that we adjourn to meet in San Francisco and invite the Railroad Commission to be present and explain to us, if they will, their interpretation of the recent trucking act and particularly as it affects rates and also that the Board of Equalization be invited to be present.

Truck Regulation.

Pursuant to resolution of the committee passed at Pasadena, your committee met on December 14th and 18th at the State Building in the city of San Francisco. Most of the time was taken up at the hearing in receiving testimony favorable and unfavorable to the recent truck regulation enacted at the last session of the Legislature.

Among those present were the following:

- Walter J. Lattin, representing the steam railroads;
- John Curry, for California Gardeners' Association and California Wood-growers' Association;
- Walter L. Miller, for California Farm Bureau Federation;
- J. Richard Townsend, J. B. McAlister, for Stockton Traffic Bureau, Stockton Chamber of Commerce, City of Stockton, Stockton Port District and San Joaquin Farm Bureau Federation;
- J. B. Gilmore and Edward M. Berol, for the Truck Owners' Association and San Francisco Dealers' Association;
- Carl R. Schultz, for Chichester Transportation Company and for certain shippers;
- John A. McCurdy, for Poultry Producers of Central California;
- H. B. Abbott, for Board of Equalization;
- Fred R. Wolford, for Challenge Cream & Butter Association;
- Frank Battistini, for Tomato Growers, Vallejo District;
- W. F. Francis, for Davis Creamery Association;
- Sunborn, Roehl & St. Clair, by E. L. MacLeod, for the Tank Truck Operators Association;
- M. B. Harris, Leon O. Whitsell, Wallace L. Ware, and Frank R. Devlin, for the Railroad Commission of the State of California.

The committee was assisted and honored by the presence of the Railroad Commission members throughout the hearing on the truck matters.

At the opening Commissioner Harris requested Commissioner Ware be permitted to present a prepared statement on behalf of the commission. This very carefully prepared study is herein set forth as follows:

"MR. WARE: Mr. Crittenden and Senators of the committee:

This statement referred to by Senator Harris is the result of the collaboration of the members of the Railroad Commission in which we have unanimously concurred. It is a brief paraphrasing of this 134 page order, dated November 9, 1936, that involves the fixation and the stabilization of petroleum rates in California. I will read the statement.

This statement is made on behalf of the commission:

We understand the committee desires to be informed of the interpretation placed by the commission upon the recently enacted statutes relating to transportation and desires to be informed of the policy pursued in establishing rates under those statutes.

The commission is glad of this opportunity to inform your committee on these vital questions.

Before doing so, however, we believe it would be helpful to briefly direct the committee's attention to what we believe were the underlying reasons which prompted the enactment of the 1935 statutes.

For some number of years transportation in California, because of inadequate regulatory laws, has been demoralized. The commission recognized this in 1932 and in that year instituted on its own motion an investigation into the transportation conditions prevailing in the State. Special notices of the investigation were sent to over 13,000. Twenty-four hearings were had at various points in the State. Two hundred forty-one witnesses testified, representing shippers and receivers of freight, chambers of commerce, shipping organizations and transportation companies. A questionnaire was sent to 12,418 shippers and receivers of freight.

From the evidence received at the hearing and from the return to the questionnaire two facts stood out in bold relief. First, transportation in California was demoralized and, second, the overwhelming majority of the representatives of industry, agriculture and business desired stabilization in transportation and transportation rates. They were particularly disturbed because a system of unknown transportation charges and practices were being introduced into an economic structure which had been built upon a system of known charges and practices."

SENATOR DEUEL: Will you repeat that, Mr. Ware, please?

MR. WARE: These shippers were particularly disturbed because a system of unknown transportation charges and practices were being introduced into transportation rates of competing carriers, cost of other means of transportation, and would fail to provide an equality of transportation rates for the users of these facilities, for a new and more complete system of transportation. Thus, as the commission stated in its Decision No. 29-267, rendered November 9, 1935, in the so-called petroleum case:

"... the views and wishes of the shipping public have been seen to coincide precisely with the mandate of California's Legislature to the effect that public interest demands and requires the competitive force and preservation of highway truck competition. In a word the interest of public interest is in favor of regulated and perpetuated competition."

The policy of the Legislature follows closely the policy of Congress in the regulation of interstate commerce. • • •

That is the end of the quotation from the decision. I resume the statement.

"The statutes became effective September 16, 1935. The commission thereupon organized a new Transportation Department consisting largely of engineers and rate experts. They immediately commenced a survey of transportation conditions. One of their major tasks was to determine the fair cost of transporting property by truck. Comprehensive reports having been made, numerous hearings were held, and rates on various commodities prescribed. We have available for the committee copies of all decisions rendered thus far. I will here only refer to one of those decisions, the petroleum case, which definitely outlines the procedure followed by the commission and the interpretation placed upon the statutes. The procedure followed was substantially this:

First, upon petition of the Tank Truck Operators' Association, a California corporation, composed of members engaged in the heretofore unregulated movement of a substantial proportion of the refined petroleum products transported in California by tank trucks, alleging that the rates charged for the transportation of petroleum and petroleum products by highway carriers and common carriers by railroad were unduly and unreasonably low, insufficient and discriminatory, the commission instituted an investigation of such rates and made all rail and truck carriers respondents to the proceeding.

Second, the commission constituted members of its engineering and rate divisions to prepare an independent and impartial analysis of the cost of moving refined petroleum products by truck over the public highways.

Third, notice of hearings were sent to all known interested shippers and receivers of petroleum products, chambers of commerce and trade associations.

Fourth, the oil companies were specifically invited to attend the hearing and freely express their views.

A comprehensive record was developed in this proceeding. From the evidence developed from witnesses there representing the oil companies, the transportation companies affected, and the independent investigation made by the commission's own staff, the commission established, first, sufficient, reasonable and nondiscriminatory rates for trucks and, secondly, just and sufficient rail rates upon the following basis:

1. The truck rates are based upon the cost figures presented by the engineering division of the commission. They are lower,—in some cases materially lower, than rates which would result from cost studies presented by representatives of the tank truck industry. The truck rates prescribed by the commission bring above an over-all increase of truck revenue of about 3.86 per cent.

2. The rail rates are based upon the so-called southwestern scale prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in Refined Petroleum Products in the southwest, 177 I. C. C., 381, 174 I. C. C., 745, increased approximately 20 per cent to compensate for the difference in operating conditions in this territory. They are on a lower level than this commission found to be reasonable in numerous rate cases in the past, and lower than the Interstate Commerce Commission found to be reasonable for application in this territory in the Mountain Pacific cases, 192 I. C. C. 539, in the year 1933.

It is true rail rates will be increased materially, the increases ranging from 7 per cent to 118 per cent. On the surface these increases may appear drastic, but when viewed in the light of their historical background they are easily justified as reasonable. It must be borne in mind that the rail rates are an outgrowth of a bitter rate which was fought for years between the railroads and trucks for the gasoline traffic, an economic rate war contrary to public interest which never would have been permitted had the present statutes been in effect. There is evidence in the record to show that the present rail rates are in some cases only 17 per cent of the rates maintained by the railroads prior to the time the rate war commenced. There is evidence in the record to show that the present rail rate of the railroads from the Los Angeles Basin to Imperial is 35½ per cent of the rate found reasonable by this commission in 1927, in Bird vs. Southern Pacific Company, 33 C. R. C., 259. The rate prescribed by the commission in the petroleum case from the

It is clear from the statement of Commissioner Ware that elements other than actual costs are to be taken into consideration, and therefore, it may be uncertain as to what we may ultimately expect from this truck regulation. To illustrate:

QUESTION—SENATOR GORDON TO COMMISSIONER WARE: "Would you set a rate so as to protect some other transportation system, such as a railroad or some other truck line, from losing business, and therefore raise the rates sometimes above the compensatory rate of return in order to protect some other line of transportation?"

ANSWER BY COMMISSIONER WARE: "It is not the purpose of any member of this commission to create an artificial rate for the aggrandizement or the peculiar advantage of any agency of transportation. I take it that it is not within our legal right to do such a thing, because in consideration and interpretation of section 13½, which you gentlemen of the Legislature passed in the session of 1935, that section affords an express mandate to this commission to permit any rate sufficiently low by any means of transportation to meet existing competition, but not to go below it."

Mr. Ware further stated that in fixing rates for trucks, section 10 of the Highway Carriers' Act, inhibits this commission from establishing a rate higher than the rates currently charged by common carriers.

Now, the construction of that in plain language means these trucks will be permitted to meet, of course, the competition of common carriers, the rate concurrently being charged by common carriers.

In other words, it is clear that the commission does permit the raising and lowering of rates to meet competition, and in so doing the question is whether or not the public interest is best served.

It is clear that when the law permits and the commission sets rates based on anything other than the various legitimate costs and reasonable profit allowed, that competition between different methods of transportation is to that extent abrogated and the benefit of such competition is not enjoyed by the public.

At that session representative of the Farm Bureau, Walter L. Miller, attorney, was present, and called to the attention of the committee that any increase in the cost of transportation was directly brought back to the producer and was very difficult to pass on; secondly, that we should in regulating truck transportation take into account the different types of highway carriers. He called attention of the committee to the fact that there are different types of highway carriers and that the producer should receive the benefit of the different types of carriers, the rate on each one being based on the cost of production of that particular carrier and not based on any general rule of cost, thus giving the shipper the benefit of competition.

Mr. Miller was against any regulation of transportation of a farmer hauling his own commodity to market, or a farmer hauling a neighbor's crop to market, when it is not a principal part of his business but is more or less incidental.

Mr. Miller opposed the collection of any money by the agency doing the regulating whether it be a small amount or large amount. He preferred that it be collected by the State generally and not by the regulatory agents. He felt that the commission should be financed adequately out of the general funds of the State.

Mr. Miller seemed to agree in principal with the statements of the commission hereinbefore contained excepting as to the methods of collecting of fees.

It is quite impossible to deal fairly with a statement of the Railroad Commission and the recent decisions of the Railroad Commission in regard to truck regulation, and we believe the committees interested should so far as possible read some of the decisions of the Railroad Commission on truck regulation, and if possible, the transcript of the committee on the hearings at San Francisco, particularly the petroleum decision, and others following.

Mr. John Curry appeared before the committee representing the California Cattlemen's Association and California Woolgrowers. He stated they were interested in the gasoline case, not because they use so much gasoline but because it apparently is going to be used as a precedent in other cases; that the truck service is very valuable to the cattlemen.

He believes the views of former Commissioner Carr to be the correct views at this time and he read to the committee the dissenting opinion of former Commissioner Carr, which is in the following words, letters and figures, to wit:

"I dissent from the order.

Heavy increases in all known rates for the transportation of gasoline are made. Believing that transportation rates should not be increased by public authority except for clear and impelling reasons, and that such reasons are not here present, it is appropriate that I state briefly my views.

Four interests are involved.

First: The well organized tank truck operators engaged in a highly specialized business urge the commission (a) to fix minimum rates for the haulage of gasoline by tank truck which will insure them better earnings and (b) to protect them in higher earnings by forbidding their rail competitors to charge rates lower than the minimums fixed for the trucks, except where, for long

Second: There is the idea that the railroads need more money and that their rates should be sharply increased in the hope of accomplishing this end. The railroads here oppose any increase in their rates.

Third: This case, in substance and effect, is an application by the tank truck operators for an increase in rates. Does their financial position as here disclosed call for the granting of their request?

As the railroads in their quest for gasoline traffic have made successive reductions in their rates, the truck operators have persistently and vigorously asserted that they were being ruined. It is doubtless true that every commissioner at the time Re Gasoline Rates, 30 C.R.C. 37, 153, was decided, thought the tank truck operators would be in an unduly financial condition. What the truckers now claim that condition to have been under the lowered rail rates is depicted in their Exhibit 1, which is a summarization separately and collectively of the revenues and expenses of 15 operators, and which is declared to be a representative cross section of the entire industry.

Reduced to an annual basis, the collective or combined showing is:

Revenue	$2,300,000 00
Costs	2,280,000 00
Net for return	20,000 00
'Estimated value of plant and equipment'	1,928,000 00
Rate of return	1%
Per cent increase in revenue to yield 8 per cent.	5.86%

Included in the claimed value of $1,928,000 is an item of equipment of $472,500, the depreciated book cost of which is $22,607. The equipment thus valued is depreciated at the rate of $118,125 per annum. The annual depreciation actually charged was $12,921. These items pertain to one operator. If the property base be adjusted only to reflect the book depreciated cost of this one item and the cost figure be adjusted to reflect the depreciation actually charged the return becomes about 8 per cent. It may safely be asserted that never in the long history of the commission has a utility been permitted to increase its rates on such a weak and inconclusive showing of earning as here made. With private truck operators under new legislation seeking aid from public authority analogous to that long accorded in proper cases to public utilities, they should be held to the full and convincing showing of need demanded of public utilities when seeking rate increases.

Fourth: A defense or appraisal of the order not expressed in the long opinion may be advanced by its sponsors based upon assumptions not only in striking contrast to the picture painted in the opinion respecting the need or lack of need for a differential between rail and truck rates, but inconsistent with some of the representations made and testimony given.

This in substance is that the truck rates prescribed really will increase the revenue of the truck operators only about 4 per cent; that the oil companies not only allocate to the tank trucks the preponderance of the gasoline movement but pay the trucks for transportation substantially more than the corresponding rail scale; that this may take the form of higher than rail rates for the competitive business, but more likely takes the form of relatively higher rates where the movement is to noncompetitive points; that the minimum rates for the trucks where lower than the rates now received will be voluntarily observed by the trucks as going rates; and that hence increases in rates may be offset by such voluntary decreases, with the net effect that as to the operators mentioned in Exhibit No. 1 their reported gross revenue of $2,300,000 will be increased by only about $90,000 and that incidentally discrimination in rates (which may well be under such assumptions) will be corrected.

Indeed, this theory is the only alternative to the conclusion that the order grants the truck operators increases in rates far in excess of anything warranted by even their maximum claims as to deficient earnings.

Acceptance of the assumption or inference that the oil companies are paying the trucks rates higher overall than the rail scale of course (a) destroys the factual picture upon which is based conclusions upon the issue of differentials and (b) is irreconcilable with (1) the representations of the truck operators, (2) the testimony of one major oil company traffic officer that truck and rail rates were the same, and (3) the testimony of all the oil company officers that, as stated in the opinion, 'factors of minimum weights, speed in transit, flexibility of service, loading and unloading, credit arrangements, and settlement of claims, as they are related to the rails on the one hand, and the trucks on the other, justify no monetary differential in rate.'

Referring back to the interests involved in this case—

The railroads do not seek, but oppose a change in rates. The gasoline using public is not interested in bearing increased transportation costs. The tank truck operators constitute the only interest desiring the higher rates here ordered. Their maximum claim respecting earnings calls for rates which

Resolved, That we express our deep and heartfelt appreciation to all those Farm Bureau friends and guests who have aided so well in the success of this convention."

Following are the resolutions presented by the last convention of the California Woolgrowers Association and the California Cattlemen's Association:

"MR. CURRY: Mr. Chairman, I am going to synopsize the resolutions that we adopted at our last convention asking for new legislation, or changes in legislation. Quite a number were adopted which relate to the lime and brand law. It is about this legislation.

Now, one important matter is, we want to have red lights and signs for our first emergency legislation.

The next one is entitled, Live Foreman, Foreign Born, Foreign, etc. In that we pass to the following committee of laws. We refer you to Senate Messages for January 1936 and then call that all legislation passed will be introduced in this session on different areas in order to work out some definite method some law is before you.

The next one is that all abandoned roads and bridges be kept in order that they may be used for carrying big trucks and fulfill some of our purposes in building roads, preventing highway or live stock sale from off the highways.

The next one is that the Range Riders Association be organized to continue on a strictly voluntary basis.

The next one is that we passed the process of extending the marketing and grading of meat within the State of California along the lines of the proposed Federal law, and call that the State Bureau of Agriculture to prepare the act and come with the State Finance Committee. And we want to say that such a committee was appointed consisting of seven men, and they collected some time with Messrs. Gordon, Morgan and Perry, and attended our committee.

The next one is that the California Highway Commission build and maintain from State or State Highway funds any road.

The next one is that we have in communication where 90 per cent or more of the land is used for live stock that no transfer of live stock shall occur unless the value of the land exceeds $10,000 and has been certified by a fence.

Next, Prohibit that the State Finance Commission with private efforts should collect money from the State of California.

Next, prohibit the owner of the present Foreman Law, except to protect the live stock industry.

Next, allow that the present law relating to light hunting be amended to exclude private land.

Next, allow the present program of extension of live stock in California, and within the Fish and Game Commission to use increased efforts in the control of game, or other matters.

Next, allow that some other law be passed and legislation which would prohibit members, individually or collectively, with other members, from treating their live stock for the prevention of animal disease.

The next one is that the State Bureau of Agriculture be given the right to make and make the program for the marketing of the live stock public and of such matters, or such matters, through the Fish and Game Commission may have approval.

Next is that certain of our members are contributing to the feeding and care of the live stock of the State and asking that we urge the Legislature to continue that they be supported for their aid.

The next one is to remove any bills which would remove the settlement from some private land, through which they produce vaccines and serum for treating their animals.

That is all I have.

We make the other recommendations in regard to those as to those presented by the Farm Bureau.

In Conclusion

Your committee believes that the three major subjects, to wit: Marketing of Agricultural Products, Soil Conservation, and Truck Regulation, are vital to agriculture. We recommend as follows:

That all bills affecting the marketing of agricultural products be carefully considered from the standpoint of the producer and that if measures are presented which will augment and encourage competitive activity between the producer, the processor and the distributor, that such bills be supported.

That it is the duty of the State, if possible, to merge all efforts which are now being put forth under existing law and all efforts being put forth by private corporations into one effective movement for the stabilization of agricultural prices and for the prevention of surplus production, and for the profitable sale of all surplus production in a way preventing the lowering of prices of any particular commodity or any commodity which is in competition therewith.

We recommend that the State cooperate with the Federal Government in some method of soil conservation whereby the State may obtain the benefit of offers of assistance by the Federal Government. The bills are not in such form as to be definitely recommended.

From what appears in the testimony before the committee, we find that truck regulation so far is wholly unsatisfactory, very far reaching in its effects and even questionable as to whether or not it is beneficial to the general public:

We recommend that simpler rules be adopted, based solely on cost of production of the individual haul so that any individual hauler may haul freight for hire at the cheapest possible rate at which he can pay expenses, with fair wages for reasonable hours work and a reasonable return; that he should be permitted to do that notwithstanding it may be injurious to a less efficient or a different mode of transportation.

Your committee begs leave to present this as a preliminary and partial report; that it may submit further reports as the session progresses.

Respectfully submitted.

Communications.

The following communications were received, and on request of Senator Olson, ordered printed in the Journal:

(Telegram.)

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA, May 28, 1937.

Senator Culbert Olson.

City Council this date passed resolution protesting the passage of Assembly Bill No. 2503 in the Senate in its present amended form.

E. L. McDONALD, City Clerk.

(Telegram.)

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, May 28, 1937.

Senator Culbert L. Olson, Capitol.

The City Council of the city of Los Angeles unanimously adopted resolution today protesting against the passage of Assembly Bill No. 2503 in its present amended form, or in any form that would take away from the cities of Los Angeles and Long Beach mineral rights underlying the tidelands within these cities which rights have been heretofore granted to these cities by the State. We urgently request that you do everything possible to prevent passage of such a bill because we feel that such an act would constitute an unwarranted and unfair invasion of the property rights of the two cities mentioned. Los Angeles is depending on oil income from harbor lands to help amortize harbor bonds and thus reduce burden on Los Angeles taxpayers.

ROBT. DOMINGUEZ,

City Clerk of the City of Los Angeles.

Provided for the appointment of a Senate Finance Committee on State Hospitals.

To conduct a thorough study of the facilities of the State hospitals and the general subject of methods of caring for the insane, in order to reduce the number of patients by more efficient preventive and curative measures.

WHEREAS, In March, 1936, there were 19,000 patients in State hospitals and in March of 1937 there were 20,000, and the number in such patients increases constantly at the rate of 4 to 10 per cent per year under existing conditions; and

WHEREAS, Positive treatment has been obtained and research practically eliminated, due to this steady increase in patient load necessitated by increase in personnel and treatment facilities at the several State hospitals, through new buildings have been added from time to time, the number having been reduced considerably, only rather than a definite treatment program utilized by preventive measures to reduce the number of patients admitted and by improved treatment methods to shorten the period of hospitalization and lessen the number of patients returned for treatment; and

WHEREAS, It is hereby indicated that a thorough study of the several elements of this problem is imperative to the end that suitable means may be devised to break this otherwise hopeless circle of constantly increasing patient load and consequent heavy capital outlay; and

WHEREAS, From the experience of other States, particularly that of Massachusetts, it would appear that other and different methods of caring for the insane, and early treatment of mental cases, may be ascertained and developed, with the result that need for increased housing facilities in large measure may be reduced and a portion of the saving thus effected made available for improved equipment
